Miss Paige

Instructor

Hi! My name is Paige Schrupp, I am currently studying Interior Design at the University of Wisconsin-Stout, and I'm so happy to have recently joined the SCVDA family! I grew up dancing competitively at Dancin' On Broadway for thirteen years, training in various styles such as tap, jazz, ballet and my personal favorite lyrical/contemporary. Here I began assistant teaching with some of the younger groups and loved it!

During my freshman year of high school I decided to transfer to the Saint Paul Conservatory for Performing Artists to help further my dance career and learn what the professional world of dance had to offer. My experiences at school were one of a kind as I was given many opportunities to create and present my own choreography, continue to train in many styles during school, and work with several working professionals in the Twin Cities area. After graduating and pursuing another path away from dance at college, I still wanted to remain involved in the dance community because of all the wonderful experiences I had. These experiences have only continued at SCVDA because of all the amazing kids and staff.

Why Miss Paige enjoys teaching:

"Teaching has always been a dream of mine and I've always enjoyed it for the opportunity to guide young and aspiring dancers to enjoy what they love, while giving them a fun and encouraging environment to be in."
